NEEDS ENOUGH—BUT!

ADDRESSED TO HIGH SCHOOL AND COLLEGE GIRLS

Disaster strikes. Hundreds of frightened people are at their wit's end. The injured and homeless need prompt and skillful care. Our churches try to organize rescue work. They need professional help. Deaconesses! They will be quickly sent—if—there are enough girls in training to take the sisters' places while the emergency lasts.

In a community not too far from one of our churches there are people for whom no religious, social or recreational life is planned. The pastor and church council decide to do something for them. Someone offers a usable building in the heart of the neglected district. A full-time leader of the new neighborhood house is needed. A deaconess! She would have just the right abilities and spirit. The motherhouse has one to send because a few years ago a girl well suited to the need answered God's call to life service.

A certain pastor's hold on his people has increased with the years. His preaching and counselling are at their best. But the management of the church, increased need for pastoral calling and the demands made upon him from outside his growing church are too much for his years. He needs help. A deaconess! She could make it possible for him to give ten more years of superior service. But she is not available. And she won't ever be unless you volunteer for training.

It is 1945. Our foreign mission force finds a chance to help a vast number of children. Needed: a Christian teacher, nurse, play director and friend—all in one person. This helper must take handicaps in her stride and keep a happy heart in the midst of hardships. A deaconess! But where will we get her unless you start preparing yourself this year?
